

Examples of research questions

Force Management Statements; Understanding Demand, Capacity and Capability; Early Intervention, Prevention & Partnerships

Professional policing practice can be enhanced through research, particularly when it is informed by risk, threat and harm priorities, and aims at impact and improved outcomes.

Research starts with a question – here are some examples of questions that can help drive future research to improve policing outcomes for the public.

Think about more research questions relevant to your particular role in policing – and let EMPAC know!

Empac.org.uk

